"INDIA DESTINED TO BE ONE MIGHTY NATION"

Mr. Kher On Independence

"I FOR one cherish the hope that even as countries such as Indonesia and Ceylon are turning towards India of which they once formed part for help, a time may come when those who thought fit to secede and separate from the mother country may realise their mistake and want to rejoin India whom nature, history and, I feel, even Providence intend to be one mighty benevolent nation," said Mr. B. G. Kher, Prime Minister of Bombay, in a broadcast speech from All-India Radio, Bombay, on Friday.

"We are on the threshold of a newera in our country's history." Mry there observed. To men and women of the older generation now living has failen the lot of seeing three events of world wide importance which occurred in their own life time: the two World Wars of 1914 and 1939 and now the achievement of Freedom by India which we are celebrating today. "It is now almost exactly two years since the second World Warsame to an and—two of the most eventful years in the history of the world. They were dominated by the two ideals of freedom for the common man and the removal of social injustice everywhere. The Labour Government came to power the England, and gave a new orientation to the policy of the British Government which has marked the end of Imperialism and brought about a status of equality for all members of the Commonwealth. Thus it i that for India today the gateway of freedom so ppen and the century old struggle waged against foreign domination by countless patriots has come to a victorious conclusion.

"It is our great good fortune that Mahatma Gandhi who led our struggle during the last quarter of a century and forged for us a new weapon based on moral anactions is still in our midst coaselessly devoting himself to the great cause of Swara for humanity and of prace and goodwill among men. The nation feels deeply grateful to had be is enthrough our hearts in the Makter of modern India," he added.

Our first act on assuming charge of the Government of free India today is to make an earnest appeal to all our people to put an end to violence in every shape and form.

and to violence in every shape and form,

"We have all to face tremendous problems which affect the well-being of the masses of India. A violence and conflict aggravate these problems and make their solution even more difficult. It is the duty of Government to preserve peace, for all orderity progress and even the normal life of the community depends upon the preservation of peaceful conditions.

It cannot exist without the consent and goodwill of the people, "We have proclaimed that we as a nation and a people stand for world peace and co-operation among nations. We can only work for that great objective if we have peace in our own country and co-operation amongst ourselves. "We would venture to extend this appeal to those who live now in Pakistan. For though Pakistan may be separated from India by political boundaries, the easential spiritual unity of the country, like its geographic unity, cannot and should not be broken up.
